Radford School of Health Sciences equips students with effective theory and practical experience to fully prepare them for successful medical careers.

SCHOOL OF HEALTH SCIENCES

The School of Health Sciences is a new faculty created by the college to offer courses in the health care field previously unavailable in Ghana. The curriculum is based on the US model but adapted to the Ghanaian environment with huge job potential for the graduates. These courses are initially offered as two-year certificate courses but will be expanded to full Bachelor of Science degrees in the near future.

Physician Office Assistant Certificate course

These courses are entry level training for support staff to the Medical Office or clinic, the hospital and any field in healthcare area that requires training in basic medical, clinical and office administration. Graduates can continue working as medical assistants or proceed to other medical fields like nursing, medical technicians or medical administrators. The certificate courses include:

Medical Office Administrative Assistant

Medical Secretary/Receptionist

Medical Office Clinical Assistant (including EKG and Ultrasound assistantship)

Phlebotomist

Diagnostic Ultrasound Technician Certificate courses

Ultrasonography is the most cost effective and safe imaging modality and excellently suited to the developing country environment. It is rapidly expanding in its use and there is a growing need for technicians. Although there may be other schools of ultrasound in Ghana, we offer a refreshing clinical approach by training our technician not only to do the procedure but to offer the ordering physician preliminary interpretation (the European approach) in the following areas:

General Diagnostic Ultrasound Technician

Echocardiography Technician
Vascular Ultrasound Technician

Medical Laboratory Technician Course

No medical diagnostic system can operate without a laboratory. Our graduates will be offered the best practical training otherwise not available in other institutions in the following areas:

General medical laboratory technician
Medical Microbiology Technician
Hematology Technician
Medical Biochemistry Technician
Histopathology Technician

Emergency Medical Technician/Paramedic Certificate course

Our EMT training is the first of its kind in Ghana. There are currently no EMTs to serve our country and therefore no well run ambulance service. We are working with the Ministry of Health and the Fire Service to fill this badly needed service. Such technicians will also serve in hospitals, schools, airports, sports events and so on. The division will also offer first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation to all our graduates and to all healthcare personnel as short courses.

Surgical/Operating Room Technician Certificate Course

This course will also be the one of its kind in Ghana. The rapidly expanding health care field in Ghana especially in the private is in demand of operating room technician to make all surgeries safe. The surgical technician is as vital a member of the surgical team as the anesthesiologist technician or the nurse to ensure a successful and safe surgical outcome.
